Marquis Who's Who Honors Stanely C. Njoku, PhD, for Expertise in Environmental Health and Safety

Stanely C. Njoku, PhD, is lauded for providing clients with leading technology solutions as the founder of Sybest LLC

SAN LORENZO, CA, June 26, 2025, Stanely C. Njoku, PhD, has been selected for inclusion in Marquis Who's Who. As in all Marquis Who's Who biographical volumes, individuals profiled are selected on the basis of current reference value. Factors such as position, noteworthy accomplishments, visibility, and prominence in a field are all taken into account during the selection process.

Dr. Njoku is the founder and chief executive officer of Sybest LLC, a company he established in 2023. Recognized as a certified small business/minority business entity, his firm provides leading technology solutions focusing on data science and analytics, environment, health and safety management, strategic problem solving, training and development, and leadership and collaboration. In his role, Dr. Njoku manages statewide contracts with a government agency and oversees three additional multi-year contracts. He also ensures subcontractors who handle projects worth billions of dollars align their work with the contract scope. Dr. Njoku's expertise in data analysis, machine learning and artificial intelligence has been instrumental in his success in entrepreneurship.

Before founding Sybest LLC, Dr. Njoku was a senior environmental health and safety specialist at Gilead Sciences from 2021 to 2023. During his tenure, he focused on new drug development using machine learning to enhance the process. He also had the opportunity to participate in a nationwide hackathon hosted by Gilead aimed at improving clinical trials for new drug development. Despite being relatively new to the organization, Dr. Njoku secured third place in the competition, showcasing his innovative approach and dedication.

From 2016 to 2021, Dr. Njoku worked as an environmental health and safety specialist II at Bio-Rad Laboratories in Northern California. He also excelled as a consultant at EORM between 2013 and 2016 and held a senior production position at Life Technologies from 2010 to 2013. His career journey reflects a consistent focus on environmental health and safety and a strong foundation in data science and analytics.

Dr. Njoku's extensive academic background includes an Associate of Science in automotive technology from the College of Alameda in 2007, an Associate of Applied Science in occupational health and safety from Columbia Southern University in 2012, a Bachelor of Science in environmental resources management/occupational health and safety from California State University Bakersfield in 2012, a Master of Applied Science in environmental policy and management with a focus on energy and sustainability from the University of Denver in 2014, and a Doctor of Philosophy in business analytics and data science from Capitol Technology University in 2021. Additionally, Dr. Njoku holds certifications in automotive technology from the College of Alameda and in occupational health and safety from Columbia Southern University.

Beyond his professional endeavors, Dr. Njoku actively supports upcoming nonprofits. He has also served as the elected financial secretary for an African association in Northern California, where he transformed their finances by increasing revenue by over 240%. Moreover, Dr. Njoku has become recognized for his book "Are We Rich Because We Are Educated?"

Dr. Njoku attributes his success thus far to his drive, passion, motivation and inspiration drawn from successful individuals like Bill Gates and Mark Zuckerberg. This combination of factors has been crucial in driving his achievements across various roles. In the future, Dr. Njoku envisions Sybest becoming recognized as a digital expert who helps businesses become more efficient by addressing underlying problems or inefficiencies within their processes. He also aims to support over 300 government agencies nationally and globally while inspiring young professionals to succeed.
